BLOWS AT THE MINING EXCHANGE.

BLOWS AT THE MINING EXCHANGE.

"We are bound to emulate the Stock Exchange," said a member of the New-York Mirring Stock Exchange yesterday, "just so far as it lies in our power to do so. Ever since the recent case of fisticusts at the Stock Exchange, many of our members, I believe, have been 'spoiling for a row.' We had one on Saturday which come near being a serious matter. As it was, however, it extended no further than a slight expression of what probably was an emphatic desire to do a good deal more."

The matter referred to was a brief passage at arms (and fists) on Saturday, shortly before the clessing of the Mining Stock Exchange, between John Howard Gray, of No. 24 New-st., and Jacob Ash, of No. 40 Broadway, two members. Mr. Ash was in the group which deals in a custom which is very common at the different Exchanges, W. C. Budd especially distinguishing himself in the sport. It went so far, however, that Mr. Ash ost his patience, and, turning on his assailants, struck Mr. Gray, who was standing behind him, on the shoulder. Mr. Gray responded without doing any execution, and Mr. Ash's subsequent blows did no more damage than to touch, not very severely, the nose of Colonel Briggs, another broker. At this juncture the chairman rapped vigorously for order, and the affray went no further. No fine or penalty was imposed on Mr. Gray or Mr. Ash os hardly was imposed on Mr. Gray or Mr. Ash or Saturday by the Exchange authorities, Both Mr. Gray and Mr. Ash were disposed last evening to make light of the affair. Mr. Gray langhed heartily over the matter, and said: "The story of a fight is a mere fabrication. I didn't touch Mr. Ash's hat, but it is true that Badd did a good deal of the jamming of it. You see, Jake Ash is not likely to get into a fight; he is a stumpy little Dutchman and is the butt of the Board; the boys are all the time playing jokes on him and teasing him. On Satarday, when his hat was mashed down on his face, he did turn around and find me standing behind him, although I had nothing to do with

Mr. Ash, on being requested to give his version of e matter, stated that there was no right. "I have gradge against Mr. Gray," he said, "we are prefigored friends and he is a good enough fellow; likes to joke, although he sometimes ay earry his jokes too far. I was the Robinson crowd on Saturday, pushing rough to effect a sale. The boys knocked my toff my head and I believe it fell on the floor. I wek out at anybody who was around, but I have any fight. It was a thing that occurs the floor fourteen times a day. It hasn't caused y ill-feeling that I know of; I did not meet Mr. ay afterward because it all occurred a few mines before 3 o'clock, when we close busines."

The large hall of the Masonic Temple, at Sixthwer, and Twenty-third-st., was filled yesterday afernoon with an assemblage of n.en and women drawn together by the anouncement that P. T. Barnum would deliver temperance lecture before the Manhattan lemperance Association. A large pitcher of icerater was on the table upon the platform, around chich were grouped the officers of the association.
The meeting was opened by the audience singing.

Showman.

Mr. Barnum grasped the lappels of his coat energetically, and plunged at once into his subject by saying that he had drank more liquor than any man in the house. He first began drinking in England in 1842; he drank steadily, and the habit grew upon him for twenty years, un il one night at a temperance lecture delivered by the Rev. Mr. Chapin, in Connecticut, he made up his mind if possible to break up the habit. He thought it over all night, and the next morning he went and signed the piedge. For twenty years he had kept the faith, and, while he would be seventy-two years of age in July, in all probability he would have been in his grave years ago but for that pledge.

ITALIAN OPERA IN TWO COUNTRIES. ITALIAN OPERA IN TWO COUNTRIES.

Mr. Mapleson, of her Majesty's Opera Company, was seen at the New-York Hotel last night by a reporter, and was asked for further information concerning the report printed in the London cable dispatch to The Theorem yesterday. This report stated that a company under the chairmanship of Earl Latham, with Mr. Gye as director and with Mr. Mapleson's services secured for ten years, would combine two Italian opera troupes and would have entire control of Italian opera in Great Britain and the United States during the coming season. Mr.Mapleson snid:

LOSSES ON STATEN ISLAND.

LOSSES ON STATEN ISLAND.

A fire broke out in the saw-mill fronting on the Bay, near the Stapleton Basin, S. I., at 1:30 a. m. yesterday. The building, a large frame structure, which formerly belonged to the late George Law, was destroyed with its contents, including machinery and a large amount of building materials. It was owned and occupied by Michael Tynan, president of the Village of Edgewater. The total loss is estimated at $5,000, on which there was no insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown. It was reported that John McGee and William Gleason, two of the workmen, perished in the flames. In the course of the day, Gleason appeared alive and well. About two hours after the burning of the mills, Joseph Schringler discovered Lambert's stables, in Thompson-st., Stapleton, on fire. With assistance he extinguished the flames after slight damage had been done. This fire was started by an incendiary, as bottles filled with kerosene and rags saturated with the fluid were found scattered about. This is the third time the same place has been set on fire. The stables are in the centre of a block surrounded by frame buildings.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR DR. GARNET.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR DR. GARNET.

A memorial service was held in the Shiloh Presbyterian Church, in West Twenty-sixth-st., last night, for the late Rev. Dr. Garnet. Before the services began the house was crowded, and hundreds of persons were unable to gain admittance. A culogy on the life and labors of Dr. Garnet was delivered by the Rev. Charles P. Ray, who knew the late pastor since 1833. The Rev. E. N. Glostis, of Brooklyn, also made an address, and short essays were read by Miss Eveline Williams and Mrs. S. P. Hood. These essays were on the character of the man, and the good he had accomplished both here and elsewhere for the colored race. There was also singing by a large choir. The funeral decorations which were placed in the church when the news of the death of Dr. Garnet was received, were relieved last night by a large collection of flowers, which was placed on and around the pulpit.

In the afternoon the Sunday-school exercises were made to take the nature of a memorial service, and the church was thus crowded. Many children took part in the exercises. MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR DR. GARNET.

A NEW OLD DOMINION VESSEL.

The new iron steamship Roanoke, built by John Roach & Sons at Chester, Penn., arrived from that place yesterday. She made the trip in about eighteen hours, and is commanded by Captain Couch. In general appearament of construction she much resembles the Havana steamships City of Alexandria and City of Washington, which are among the fastest American steamships aftoat. She will be the pioneer vessel in the line which has extended its communications with Newport News, to connect with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. The dimensions of the vessel were published in yesterday's Trunting.

A FATHER'S STORY OF HIS CHILD'S DEATH.

A FATHER'S STORY OF HIS CHILD'S DEATH.

Joseph Menzer, of No. 116 East One-hundred-and eighth-st., the father of the child, Marie Menzer, who was killed on Saturday evening at the Sixth Avenue Elevated Railroad Station, at Twenty-third-st., went to the Coroner's office vesterday and told the story of the accident. He showed plainly the result of the sudden shock which left him unconscious. He testified that he got on the train at 6:15 p. m. at the Twenty-third Street Station, where he bought a bouquet for his wife. He got tickets for himself and Mr. Jacobs, a friend. While he was purchasing them he heard the gateman call out the train for Harlem.

"As I heard the train coming," he continued, "I called to my daughter and my friend, Mr. Jacobs, to hurry up. I ran to the train: the gates of the cars were open. I went on the platform, taking my daughter by the hand, saying, 'Come, Marie, come up?' A passenger whom I do not know squeezed himself between myself and my child. The child was pushed back about two steps. She seized the railing m her effort to get on the platform again, and the train started at the same moment, The gate of the platform was still open, but the brakeman made no effort to stor the train, although he saw the whole occurrence. I was suffering from rheumatism and malaria and my right knee was stiff at the time, and it prevented me from being as quick as I usually am. But I pushed the man who had forced himself between the two cars and the platform. The gate of the platform which I boarded and which my civil tried to get on was directly opposite the box where the tickets are deposited by the passengers. The train advanced so far that it did not come to a standstill until it had passed the station. The train was then halted, and it remained standing on the track for a short time. Several men were offering ne some stimulants and water, and that is all I remember."

BOYCOTTING A STARCH FACTORY.

The Knights of Labor, to whom, several weeks ago, a complaint was made in regard to the treatment of laborers in Duryca's starch factory at Glen Cove, report that'they have investigated all the circumstances which led to the present strike at Glen Cove, and find the following facts: First, wages in the factory average $1 per day; second, organizations of any kind, political, trade, labor, social or religious, are strictly forbidden and pameled by instant dismissal of any employe who should engage in them; third, permission to marry must be obtained from the employer; fourth, one employe was discharged for marrying without consent; fifth, private family alians are constantly interprivate family affairs are constantly in fered with by the employer; sixth, man was discharged for not voting tieket favored by the employer and another joining the Land League; seventh, when, some joining the Land League; seventh, when, some time ago, the boys in one of the departments of the factory went on strike, their parents were told to stay at home also; eighth, the employes are compelled to trade at the employer's store and to live in houses built by the latter. In consideration of these facts, Local Assembly No. 1,562 has asked the grand secretary of the order to inform all assemblies in the United States not to trade at any store where Duryea's starch is sold.

RUMORS ABOUT MR. HAVERLY'S FINANCES RUMORS ABOUT MR. HAVERLY'S FINANCES. Before sailing for Europe on Saturday, J. H. Haverly assured a Tribune reporter that all the rumors to the effect that he was in financial straits and was transferring his business to C. H. McConnell, of the National Printing Company, were utterly false. He had given Mr. McConnell, who was an old and valued personal friend, a power of atterney to act for him during his absence. Mr. McConnell would exercise a general superintendence ever his affairs. This fact was the sole basis for the reports circulated. Mr. Haverly declared that his theatres, companies and general enterprises in this country and in England were all doing well, and that his business was in better shape than it had ever been before.

The Great Trial.

Dr. Sherman's Hernia Case in Court.

The trial and acculitial of Dr. J. A. Sherman, of New-York, has attracted much attention this week. The facts seem to be that Dr. Sherman was solicited by a number of citizens, sufferers from rupture, lo make a professional visit to this city. He acceded to their request, and had been only three days established in his office, No. 43 Milk-st, when he was arrested on a charge of "circulating obscene prints or pictures." Dr. Sherman finds it absolutely necessary, as an aid to successful treatment, to use anatomical representations of some of the different classes of cases that he treats. With his "Treathee on Hernia" he has a supplement containing bhotographic lisenesses of a large number of very severe but actual case he has treated and cured, showing the aliment as it was, then as it appeared and improved under his treatment, and lastiy showing a complete cure—the object of these being the benefit of the afflicted of course. That these pictures were gotten up for any other purpose except a necessarily useful and eminently legitimate one was emphatically denied; but Detective Knox, as he himself testined, went to the office and bought a book and supplement for ten cents, under the pretence that he had a child ruptured, when Detective Warde, who had previously supplied him with the same books, walked into the Doctor's office and made the arrest.

At the trial one Sam Wilson swore that he went to General fauters office to inquire if it was legal for him to carry these books around with him in his pecket, he having also obtained them by going to the office and teining the Doctor that he, too,
